12. The Director, Mr. Helms and Mr. Houston met with Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy, Assistant Secretary William M. Rountree, and others on the problem of reciprocity of communications and amending the Communications Act of 1934. It was agreed that the amendment was highly desirable and should be pressed and it was left that Mr. Murphy would speak to General Persons and propose that if General Persons had no objection, State and CIA would explore the atmosphere of Congress through the Committee Chairmen involved and possibly through other selected Congressmen and probably the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.
